Approved For Release 2001/03/02 : CIA-RDP70-00058R000

rivate Public Business

In succeeding Allen W. Dulles as director of the Central Intelligence Agency, John A. McCone has one conspicuous qualification. As chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, he heads the other of the two government agencies about which the public knows next to nothing.

In setting up the AEC, Congress was faced with an unprecedented situation. Nuclear fission was the product of secrecy—the biggest secret ever kept. Though nuclear fission has many civilian applications (most of them still potential) much of the science and technics involved had to remain secret because of their overriding military importance.

That has remained the situation from 1946 until today. There are aspects of the cammission's work known only to the Practident and the National Security Council, other aspects that never get beyond the ears of the Joint Congressional temmittee on Atomic is at best half-informed and by Energy, much were that is unknown very nature of his function the dito the rank a lie of Congress let lot cannot even allow himself.

cases, the luxury of self-defense At the tell the AEC is the classic A good case of this was the Burry of type of till "closed" politics which criticism of the CIA for sending the in government yet inde-ill-fated U. plane over Moscow on pendent of mormal functions, its mo- May Day, 1980, so soon before the mentous photons taken in secret and Paris summit conference. One of the clashes of personality many things the public did not know which the general about that decision was the rumor in og whatsoever. This Moscow and elsewhere that something ped" politics is big was going to be abot off in Russia.

The concept of that day. If ever it was appropriate. the world in the present to have a U-2 observer over Bussis, Beyond the fact that Mr. McCone is garety, and then most often rasis to judge his qualifications for paperoat. Public comment on It new job.

McCone is in the middle of all already steeped in the secret politice o is Mr. Dulles, Mablic knowl of our open society, hence privy to the activities of the CIA would decisions already taken but not gen-it useless. It appears in the erally known, the public has very little

2001/03/02: CIA-RDP70-00058R000200120068-2